VISITING PATAGONIA

Old West culture, mining history and ghost towns meet art galleries, Arizona’s Wine Country vineyards and an outdoor oriented lifestyle of health and wellness.

Spectacular mountain ranges soar above the desert floor creating “Sky Islands” which harbor tremendous biological and geographic diversity, rare not just in the US but in much of the world.

Patagonia is a renowned destination for many American, Canadian and European birders lured by the area’s spectacular array of exotic and unusual birds. The Mountain Empire contains important conservation areas, including one of the only remaining high desert short-grass prairies in America, the San Rafael Valley.

SAACA strengthens the bonds between people, place and purpose through collaborative, arts-driven experiences.

OUR MISSION
The Southern Arizona Arts & Cultural Alliance (SAACA) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the creation, preservation and advancement of the Arts.

OUR STORY
Southern Arizona has long served as a hub for art and culture. But despite the profusion of talent, our creative individuals found difficulties in making a living from their work and sharing it with the community.

We created SAACA (formerly the Greater Oro Valley Arts Council) to address these needs by cultivating programming that puts a spotlight on our local creatives and celebrates our unique culture, while providing direct opportunities for artists to make and sell their work.

To date, SAACA has created over 200,000 arts-driven experiences, from innovative community festivals and cultural celebrations to creative sector development, and accessible arts enrichment programs. We continue to grow both our footprint and our impact as we pursue our mission of strengthening the bonds between people, place and purpose.

SOUTH32
South32 is pleased to be the Title Sponsor of the Patagonia Fall Festival, a celebration of truly extraordinary talent and artistry in a community unlike any other. Thank you for making your way to this special corner of the world to be a part of this decades-long tradition.

In 2018, South32 became the new owners of the Hermosa project, a world-class zinc, lead, and silver resource located in Santa Cruz County, and we were delighted to be welcomed into the sponsorship fold for the Patagonia Fall Festival soon after. As we continue our exploration and study work at the Hermosa project, we hope to also continue weaving this wonderful festival into our own traditions for years to come.

South32 has a demonstrated commitment to good corporate citizenship and is continuously working to lift the hard work of the non-profits and business organizations that make this region special. As a voluntary member of the International Council on Mining and Metals, we hold ourselves to well-above-industry standards in key areas such as business ethics, sustainable development, human rights, risk management, health and safety, and environment, including water stewardship and climate change.
